General Warren Reported to Have Been Ordered Home.

His Action at Spion Kop the Probable Reason-General Roberts' Despatch to the War Office Criticising the Three Officers Who Par- The ticinated in the Engagement

LONDON, April 18 .- It is reported today that Lieut, Gen. Sir Charles Warren, whose work at Spion Kop was so sharply criticised by Lord Roberts, has been recalled from South Africa and ordered to return to England.

In his report to the War Office General Lord Roberts complains that the plan of operations is not clearly described. After sketching General Buller's intentions, a communicated to Sir Charles Warren, who commanded the whole force, Lord Roberts points out that General Warren seems t have concluded, after consultation with his officers, that the flanking movement, ordered by General Buller, was impracticaadvance as to necessitate the capture and retention of Spion Kop. Lord Roberts con-

"As Warren considered it impossible to make the wide flanking movement which was recommended, if not actually prescribed, in the secret instructions, should forthwith have acquainted Buller with the course he proposed to adopt. There is nothing to show whether he did so or not. But it is only fair to Warren out to have been aware of what was hap-

Regarding the withdrawal from Spion Kop, the retention of which had become essential to the relief of Ladysmith, Lord Roberts says:

"I regret to be unable to concur with Buller in thinking Thorneycroft exercised wise discretion in ordering the troops to retire. I am of the opinion that Thorneycroft's assumption of responsibility and authority was wholly inexcusable. During the night the enemy's fire could not have been formidable, and it would not have taken more than two or three hours for Thorneycroft to communicate by messen ger with Major General Coke or Warren.

"Coke appears to have left Spion Kop at 9:30 o'clock in the evening for the purpose of consulting with Warren. Up to that hour the idea of withdrawal had not been entertained. Yet, almost immediately after Coke's departure Thorneycroft issued the order, without reference to superior authority, which upset the whole plan of operations and rendered unavailing the sacrifices already made to carry it into effect. On the other hand, it is only right to state that Thorneycroft appears to have behaved in a very gallant manner

Warren Not at Splon Kop.

"It is to be regretted that Warren aid not himself visit Spion Kop in the afternoon or evening, knowing, as he did, that the state of affairs was very critical and that the loss of the position would involve the failure of the operations. He consequently was obliged to summon Coke to his headquarters, and the command at Spion Kop thus devolved on Thorneycroft, unknown to Coke who was under the impression that the command devolved upon Colonel Hill, as senior officer. Omissions or mistakes of this nature may be trivial in themselves yet they may exercise an important influence on the course of events. and I believe Buller was justified in re- Youths Become Enthusiastic Over fled all callers, deigned to utter a few marking, 'There was a want of organization and system which acted most unfavorably on the defence.

due to the difficulties of the ground and the commanding positions held by the enemy, and probably also to errors of judgment and want of administrative capacity on the part of Warren. But, whatever faults Warren may have committed, the fallure must also be attributed to the disinclination of the officer in supreme command to assert his authority and see that what he thought best was done and also to the unwarrantable and needless assumption of responsibility by a subordinate officer. The despatch concludes:

"The gratifying feature of these despatches is the admirable behavior of the roops throughout the operation."

General Buller's report disputes General Warren's statements in his report on Spion Kop. He tells how he say the force at Spion Kop had given way before Warren knew of it, and telegraphed to War-

'Unless you put a really good, hard fighting man in command on top, you will lose the hill. I suggest Thorneycroft."

General Buller continues No Investigation Ordered.

"I have not thought it necessary to order an investigation. If, at sundown, the defence of the summit had been taken in hand, entrenchments laid out, and the dead and wounded removed, the whole place would have been brought under regular military command, and the hills would have been held, I am sure. But no arrangements were made. Coke appears to have been ordered away just as he would have been useful, and no one succeeded him. Those on top were ignorant of the fact that the guns were coming up, and generally there was a want of organization and system that acted most unfavor ably on the defence. Preparations for the second day's defence should have been organized during the day and commenced at nightfall. As this was not done, I think Thorneycroft exercised wise discretion." General Warren says that on coasulta tion with the commander-in-chief, when the question of retiring or attacking Spion Kop was discussed, Warren expressed his preference for attacking. This was successfully accomplished by Woodgate, who was wounded. Then came the order from Buller to put Thorneycroft ir command or the summit. In the meantime, Warren had sent Coke up to re-enforce him, with orders to assume command. After many ineffectual efforts to heliograph Thorney croft and find whether he had assumed command, Warren was finally able to ge orders through, and concluded the position could be held if guns could be provided and shelter obtained.

Both these conditions were about to be ulfilled when, in the absence of Coke, whom I had ordered to come and report in person on the situation, the evacuati took place under orders given on his own responsibility by Thorneycroft. This occurred in the face of vigorous protests of Coke's brigade major and others."

Army Officers to Serve Until Civilians Are Appointed.

A Joint Resolution to This Effect Drafted at a Conference Between the President and Secretary Root. Will Probably Be Submitted 40 Congress Late This Afternoon,

The first step in securing supplemental egislation for Porto Rico to relieve the difficulty now confronting the President in organizing the civil government was taen today by Secretary Root, who submitted to President McKinley a draft of a joint resolution, providing for the retention of Army officers in their civil positions in the island until Governor Allen shall select their successors. It will probably be passed without delay. This legislation has been made necessary

ecause of the failure of Congress to pass the Porto Rican bill earlier than it did. overnor Alien has less than two weeks within which to select civil officials to fill the island positions now occupied by Army officers. Under the law when an Army officer accepts a civil appointment under the United States he immediately vacates his military office. Secretary Root and the President had a secretary Root and the President had a conference this afternoon on the question of retaining the Army officers in their po-sitions pending the installation of the civ-il government and the former explained the necessity for the immediate passage of the joint resolution. It was decided at of the joint resolution. It was decided at this conference to have the resolution of-fered in Congress this afternoon. Earlier in the day Speaker Henderson was closeted with the President for the greater part of an hour. On leaving the White House he declined to make any statement as to what was discussed, but it is supposed that the need of new Porto Ri-can legislation was the subject.

can legislation was the subject For the most part, callers at the White House this morning were inclined to doubt that Congress would be called upon to pass any additional statutes for authorizing Army officers to hold civil positions in Porto Rico after the inauguration of Gov-

Porto Rico after the inauguration of Governor Alien.

Senator Davis said: "I do not see any necessity of enacting additional Porto Rican legislation. There is always a quasi-interregnum in such cases as this in Porto Rico where the military authorities are giving place to civil officers. Under such circumstances a little latitude is inevitable. No. I do not see why Congress should No. I do not see why Congress should be called on to pass any laws to cover that Representative John A. McDowell of Ohio who called on the President on minor business remarked: "I do not think that the new Porto Rican government can prove a success. There will be a double-headed authority, with the civil governor and the military commander each claiming power. Should the natives consent to the new orshould the natives consent to the new order of things Governor Allen may get along comfortably, but a rebellion would put the army officers in the saddle. Besides that there is sure to be much carpetbagging. to. I have not hear! much dis enacting additional legislation for carrying out the Porto Rican law. I do not think any such additional laws will be put through.

Representative Julius Kahn of Califor-nia looked in with a party of friends. Senator Shoup of Idaho and Senator Addi-son G. Foster of Washington were also mong the callers.

Representative Patrick Henry of Miss-issippi called in regard to legalizing the bridge over the Pearl River at Rockford. The stream has been declared not navi-gable and Mr. Henry wants the presence of the bridge over to size a legal researce of the bridge over it given legal status.
Justice Gray, of the Supreme Court, was with the President for a few moments.
J. R. Burton, of Abilene, Kan., who is ne of the liveliest candidates for Senatorship from the Sunflower State, was among the callers.

The President today approved the bill setting apart a portion of the Arlington estate for experimental agricultural purposate for the relief of Huann and also the act for the relief of Hiram Johnson and otners.
